

There hasn't been a lot of news over the winter, so I haven't generated a newsletter, so it's time to do one now.

I acquired a few new artifacts for my collection since last fall, a couple of these are detailed on my blog, also an idea for a possible model there at the top of the page;

<http://www.urbansculptures.com/wordpress/>

One of the artifacts is a lovely lady roundel, there are a total of 11 I found, 9 are still on buildings, the roundel is definitely a portrait of someone of some kind of significance. The 11 date to having been made between 1900 and 1908, so it is likely someone of importance around the late 1890's maybe. One building features FOUR of these in elaborate borders. She sports laurel leaves and oak leaves, both a symbolic and there for a reason not just decoration. See if YOU might be able to identify the lady;

<http://i23.photobucket.com/albums/b375/Randall2/misc/ladyroundel.jpg>

I have also changed my youtube videos to a new name to keep it consistent with my web site, you can bookmark it here;

<http://www.youtube.com/user/UrbanSculpture>

I am working hard to complete a large wholesale order for a store on the East coast, and I am thinking about ideas for models to do this summer, but nothing really "grabs" my interest at the moment.

That's all for this issue, have a safe summer!

Randall

Randall's Urban Sculptures

<http://www.urbansculptures.com>